Center for Clinical and Translational Science (CCTS)

The Ohio State University Center for Clinical and Translational Science is a collaboration among the University, the Ohio State Wexner Medical Center, and Nationwide Children's Hospital dedicated to turning scientific discoveries into life-changing disease prevention strategies and health diagnostics and treatments.

The CCTS leverages expertise from across the University, including scientists and clinicians from the seven health science colleges, the College of Engineering, OSU Wexner Medical Center and Nationwide Children's Hospital, community health and education agencies, business partnerships, and regional institutional network partnerships.

The CCTS provides financial, organizational, and educational support to biomedical researchers and opportunities for the community to participate in research.
